WHAT THIS IS

Who America teaches.

This reference gives every state its own page with its total public K-12 enrollment, national rank, and how enrollment has changed — both over the five pandemic-era years and in the latest year. It's the map of where American students are, and where they're moving.

A SHRINKING, SHIFTING MAP

U.S. public schools enrolled 49.39M students in fall 2024 — down -2.8% from 2019 as the pandemic and a falling birth rate cut into enrollment. But the change is uneven: fast-growing states like Texas, Florida and North Dakota gained students, while the Northeast and parts of the West shrank sharply.
